Who We Are

Latinos in Action (LIA) offers an assetbased approach to bridging the graduation and opportunity gap for Latino students, working from within the educational system to create positive change.

Location

LIA began in Utah in 2001. Today the program operates in 300+ schools across 15 states, with new schools, districts, and states joining each year.

What We Do

LIA began in Utah in 2001. Today the program operates in 300+ schools across 15 states, with new schools, districts, and states joining each year.

30/40/30 Model

Each LIA student is paired with an elementary school student for in-class literacy tutoring and mentoring.

Elementary Tutoring

The culturally responsive curriculum was recently updated to include social emotional learning exercises and digital literacy tools for English language learners.

Leadership Structure

Students serve as leaders or committee members to plan service projects, college campus visits, and cultural events in their school and community.

College & Career Readiness

Classes are designed to meet individual needs and empower all students to succeed, bringing

LIA students

Of 1,000 LIA students surveyed:

- 88% said LIA service opportunities helped them become a better student, friend, mentor, and community member

- 79% said LIA helped them develop leadership skills in their classroom, school, and community

- 75% said LIA helped them feel more confident about preparing for college and/or a career

Latinos in Action Is Evaluation Ready

The Annie E. Casey Foundation invested in LIA as part of the Building Evidence to Advance Equity portfolio, which supports programs developed by leaders of color for communities of color in building evaluation capacity.

Being evaluation ready means a program has the knowledge, skills, and practices to test the effectiveness of its services. LIA has critical evaluation building blocks in place.

A fully articulated logic model that shows the pathways between services and expected outcomes

Fidelity tools to measure performance and determine whether services are delivered as intended

Experience with rigorous external evaluation
